A HALF SHEET.

In accordance with a custom honored in the observance by all well regulated newspapers, we publish this holiday week, a half sheet. Our printers have been faithful during the year past, never failing to get the paper out on time. We have frequently furnished our readers with double, extra and supplement sheets, and we feel sure our readers will indulge the half sheet, knowing that the printers are happy and making preparation for an improved paper with the new year.

The Sentinel is thankful for the many kind assurances from patrons and heartily wish all a merry Christmas and a happy New Year.

Gus Smith has improved so far as to be able to walk about the house.

The Firemen's Ball at the Rink on Monday night, was a great success. The beauty and civility of Logan gathered there for a good time and they had it. The Logan orchestra furnished the music. Thirteen sets danced at one time. The proceeds were beyond expectation, and will aid materially in procuring new uniforms for the fire laddies. All who were present enjoyed the entertainment. Hoping that another occasion like this may soon offer.

Class Day in the Logan Schools.

The Class Day exercises given last Friday by the Senior class of the Logan High School, were very interesting, and the day being pleasant, a good many visitors were in attendance.

The exercises were opened with music by Mrs. H. L. Wright and Mrs. Smith. Then came the opening prayer by Rev. Mitler, after which the High School Choir sang an appropriate song. Mr. Bert Harrington was then announced, his subject being "The Two Skulls." Mr. Harrington's oration was full of fine description, and his comparison between the skull of the ancient African, with its flat receding forehead, looking as though it could never have held any vestige of reason, and the skull of a person of to day, which might some time in the future be spoken of in the same way by some new and massive race, was appreciated by all.

"The Monk Has Become a Man," was the subject next discussed by Miss Finney. She showed the difference between the time when knowledge was kept from the people, and to day when it is free to every man.

Miss Finney then delivered the address to the Alumni, which was followed by A. V. Crawford, on the part of that body. After an interval, which Mrs. Wright and Mr. Smith filled up with some delightful music, Miss Emma Petty spoke on "The Success of Man." She gave in length the qualities which make up the successful man, portraying a high type of manhood. Miss Petty then addressed the Juniors expressing many kind feelings and good wishes for their well-fare and success.

This was responded to by Miss Lottie Wright on behalf of the Juniors. Her response was well constructed and full of sentiment. Mr. Ed. Sanderson then came forward and gave the charge to the vander (Miss Petty) and then the quartette of Seniors sang their class song, which was composed by Mr. Wm. Friesner, and which displayed to advantage that gentleman's poetic talent as well as his musical ability. After the song, Mr. Sanderson delivered his poem on the class emblem, ending with the valedictory.

A beautiful selection by the School Choir came next, after which Rev. Moore addressed the class, giving them much good advice, and during the music which followed, congratulations were extended to the happy four.

The emblem of the class consisted of a stone arch, supported by two pillars of stone and the whole resting on a foundation of the same material. Inside was a black velvet background, on which were four links of gold.

Crossing each other in these links were a pen and key of gold, and in the center, made of the same material, was the class motto, Scientia clavis Successus, Knowledge is the key to Success.

The Ash Cave Boom.

Mr. J. M. Floyd has bought out the interests of others in the Ash Cave property and proposes to improve it and make it the most popular pleasure resort in South Logan, O. A town of fifty to a hundred will be laid out. The Lancaster and Hamden Railroad will establish a depot here. A post office will be established. The proprietor offers free lot for a church, a school house, a blacksmith shop and a store. The lots will be sold cheap and on easy terms. A saw mill will be engaged and building material can be had on the ground. For particulars inquire of J. M. Floyd at the Sentinel office.

Chas. Rose's.

TO THE LADIES.

If you are in doubt what to get for Christmas Presents, we will name the goods. They are useful and lasting:

NICE PAIR OF GLOVES. Dozen Initial Handkerchiefs. NICE SCARF. Flannel Shirts and Waists for Children. NICE SILK UMBRELLA. A Nice Trunk. NICE FUR CAP. Fine Silk and Satin Suspenders. STYLISH HAT. Collars and Cuff Boxes.

A Suit of Fine Underwear.

Linen Collars and Cuff. A nice selection of Night Sirts. A Fine Line of Hosiery. A nice travelling Bag. A large variety of Mufflers, and numerous other goods.

AT CHAS. ROSE'S.

He was a poetical old gentleman. He was traveling at Ash Grove when he ran across one of the maidens indigenous to that soil.

She was a bare-footed, simply clad lass of twenty, with a wild wood air. The fellow chuckled her under the chin and gushed forth:

"Ah, my little maiden with the roses in your cheeks and the spark of health and happiness in your eye, tell me, are you not happy, living as you do so near to Nature's heart? Ah, how I envy you, so far removed from the world's cares and toils and anxieties that vex and fret we dwellers in the city gates. Tell me, are ye not happy, little lassie?"

She laughed a merry, careless, rippling laugh, and said coyly: "Well, they say there's no fool like an old fool, and d'ned if I don't believe it. Come h'ar, Tige, it's time for us to git 'r and off she skipped, her dog at her heels.—Ed. Bits.

An old gentleman at Ash Grove was passing through the ceremony of taking his fourth wife the other day. At the impressive climax of the good preacher's part in the performance some one was heard sobbing in an adjoining room.

"My goodness!" exclaimed one of the guests in a dramatic whisper, "who on earth is that crying on this festive occasion?"

"That?" replied a mischievous member of the experienced bridegroom's family, "that's nobody but Em—she always boozes when pa's getting married."—Detroit Tribune.

"Reduce the taxes" is the battle cry of the Democratic party and the lead of President Cleveland. "Reduce the taxes" is the response of the masses, who are burdened by a tariff which compels 60,000,000 of people to pay tribute to 90,000. President Cleveland has soundly the key note of next year's campaign. His way to prevent the accumulation of hundreds of millions in the Treasury vaults is to leave the money with the people—to tax them not one dollar more than is necessary to pay the expenses of the government honestly and economically administered.—Oswego (N. Y.) Palladium.

BRACE UP.

You are feeling depressed, your appetite is poor, you are bothered with headache, you are fatigued, nervous, and generally out of sorts, and want to brace up.

Brace up, but not with stimulants, spring medicines, or bitters, which have for their basis very cheap, bad whiskey, and which stimulate you for an hour and then leave you in a worse condition than before. What you want is an alternative that will purify your blood, start healthy action of liver and kidneys, restore your vitality, and give re-juvenated health and strength. Such a medicine you will find in Electric Bitters, and only fifty cents a bottle at F. Harrington's drug store.

White specks or float in butter are caused by the milk standing in a draft of air either from the window or a hot stove.
